

Total vegetative cover is captured well by trait species in many transects across time, but not universally

